CANCER

Cancer in the old scheme of things was a doubtful symbol for ordinary life, but for spiritual life it brings us precious gifts. It gives the sincere seeker

protection

on his difficult way, and the necessary

maturity

the ripening, the crowning, the flowering of inner experience, provided we hold on with persistence and sincerity.

Sincerity comes from the Latin, sine cera, 'without wax', and was used to describe a marble statue without a crack (covered by wax). It is not easy to be sincere, to be of a single piece from top to bottom throughout all the layers of consciousness.

Ask not the imperfect fruit, the partial prize.
Only one boon, to greaten thy spirit, demand^[1]
